From observation, reflection to production of cultural meanings using Kolb's experiential learning model: Creative approach of an academic and cultural tour to the Nordic countries

Dr. Benjamin Cheng and Ms. Iris Chan
College of International Education (CIE)
Hong Kong Baptist University

Kolb's Experiential Learning Model

CIE Academic and Cultural Study Tour to Helsinki and Copenhagen 2016

- Intended learning outcomes
 - 1. Demonstrate the appreciation of the communication forms, such as media, architectures and creative industries in the Nordic cities;
 - 2. Critically reflect their own lifestyle in relations to interpersonal relationships, consumption and the environment;
 - 3. Suggest practical strategies to put sustainable lifestyle into practice in their everyday life.

Active experimentation – planning

Snapshots of "The Making of Hong Kong"

- 1. People
- 2. Environment
- 3. Event & Activities
- 4. Lifestyle & Community

Concrete experience – doing, having an experience

- Interactive day
- Sustainability project house visit
- Flea market extending product life-cycle
- Street cultural performance
- Postcard give-out

Reflective observation & abstract conceptualization

Grassland seminar

Suomenlinna Island, Finland

Louisiana Modern Art Museum, Denmark

Active experimentation

- Photography exhibition
- Post-tour sharing

Extension of the tour – discussion in daily life through mobile technology

